(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Numerous amateurs in the eastern States reported having heard radio programs which were broadcast from Europe last night in the international broadcast tests. London, Paris, Rome and Brussels were reported heard. Reception was not perfect, and in many cases the listeners were unable to identify the sending stations. Interference, attributed to the tuning in of thousands of regenerative sets, was the principal difficulty. There also apparently was confusion in the sending of the program as shortly before the test began it was announced that only British stations would broadcast, whereas the continental stations broadcast their programs in accordance with the schedule which had earlier been arranged. The effort to send American programs to Europe apparently was less successful although full reports had not been received today.

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Nov. 25.—The first attempt on a large scale at reciprocal broadcasting in American and British and continental stations, made during the night, was only partially successful. The sole American station picked up being KDKA, Pittsburgh, which was distinctly heard in London. The other American stations, however, were not heard.

TOWN TOPICS

Dr. E. Y. Mullins will have as his subject tonight at the First Baptist church, "The Call of Europe to America." Dr. Mullins has traveled much in Europe and as a member of a commission to investigate conditions in Europe, is well qualified to speak on this subject.

The Danville Lions Club will hold Ladies' Night at the Burton hotel at half-past seven o'clock tonight. An entertaining program of stunts has been arranged by a committee. Next Tuesday the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotarians are to have a joint affair which is to be held in the Masonic Temple refectory and which promises also to be of unusual interest.

City Health Officer R. W. Garnett has been ordered to bed by his physician. He was in town yesterday attending to business but during the afternoon the strain of his recent trying experience, together with the continued pain of his burns began to tell heavily and he was urged to drop his official duties and remain in bed for a day or two. Mrs. Garnett also remains quite ill. Following the tests of their home, they are living with the Alonzo Tinsley in the vicinity of Mount Herman, where they propose to remain until plans are made. Dr. Garnett has tentatively decided to rebuild on the site of his old home but probably will not afford to do this during the present year.

City Attorney A. M. Aiken left last night for Richmond where he planned to apply to the Supreme Court for the writ of error in the case of Miss Odie Saline against the City of Danville. The plaintiff was recently awarded $1,992 damages by a jury in the corporation court.

Rev. H. N. Soyars for the past five years pastor of Schoolfield Baptist church, has accepted a call tendered him recently by the congregation of Monument Baptist church of Petersburg and he will leave with his family to take up the charge on January 1. The board of deacons of the Schoolfield church already has accepted his resignation though with considerable regret. The new church has a membership of about 165 persons with an unusually large Sunday school. A committee has been appointed by the Schoolfield church deacons to secure his successor.

T. Jefferson Bass today received a telegram from Miss Alice Bass, in Johnston, Pa., announcing the death of her father, Luther Bass, a former well remembered Danville citizen. Mr. Bass was struck by an automobile in Johnston last Friday. He died on Saturday from his injuries and was buried today. Mr. Bass will be well remembered by many of the older residents of Danville until 25 years ago when he moved to Johnston where he had since resided.

North Danville will have a Thanksgiving service on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at Shelton Memorial Presbyterian church. Rev. C. J. D. Parker will preach a Thanksgiving sermon. Rev. Jesse Hite will deliver the invocation. Rev. James Greenham will read the Scripture lesson. Rev. Mr. Johnston will lead in prayer. Thus all the churches, Grace Methodist, Keen Street Baptist, Calvary Methodist, Moffett Memorial Baptist and Shelton Memorial Presbyterian will be represented.

The expected congestion on the local tobacco market occurred today with deliveries believed to exceed any of those previously recorded here this season. Suppliers of the market after visiting all the warehouses that on no day since the present season opened has there been so much leaf here. The larger houses which had first sales could not complete them and a bad block is already in evidence.

WEATHER FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Virginia: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, not much change in temperature. North Carolina: Fair tonight, cooler on the coast; Wednesday, fair.

ASST., CASHIER

VIRGINIA CASE

Case Resulted From Looting of Bank of $200,000

(Special to The Bee.)
HALLIFAX, Va., Nov. 25.—The hand of justice fell again here yesterday afternoon in the protracted criminal proceedings following the looting of the State Bank of Virginia of $200,000 when Henry Ford, assistant cashier of the institution, was sentenced to serve four years in the state penitentiary for making false entries in the books. He had pleaded guilty more than three months ago but sentence had been deferred until this term in order to give him the opportunity of making arrangements for his defense. The chaotic condition of the bank's affairs it was known that the state would ask for a four year penalty. Commonwealth's Attorney Easley reviewed the case yesterday afternoon. Sentence was passed by Judge H. B. Gregory of Roanoke who is sitting here in lieu of Judge Barksdale who is recovering from an attack of pleurisy. The court allowed Ford until Saturday to select his counsel. He was ordered to appear on Monday at 10 o'clock and he will surrender to Sheriff Luther Rice on that day, and will be carried to Richmond next week to start the term.

Ford, however, did not yield to the intention of the state without a final effort to reduce the measure of punishment. His counsel succeeded in securing the admission of some additional testimony by which it was hoped that the court could see fit to make the term shorter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Americanization of the ZR-3, the last of the historic line of German Zeppelins was completed here today.

White pigeons, released by the hand of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and the lush aloft of a myriad of bright toy balloons, were today chosen to mark the christening of the latest ship christening as the American ship "Los Angeles." All the high officials of the government and many others at Bolling Field, took part in the ceremony. The playing of the Star Spangled Banner by a new band acknowledged the name for the latest sister of the Shenandoah. Her precise duties remain to be made known and she is being kept in the navy which took her over from her German builders after her flight across the Atlantic.

Riding the air for the first time with an American crew, the glistering ship was brought to Washington from Lakehurst under perfect behavior. She arrived over the city at 12:50 p. m. and before ascending for the christening, circled gracefully above the White House, the capitol, and the towering Washington monument, her long and broad outline descending upon an array of white clouds.

Just before the cruiser made her appearance overhead, the sun broke through clouds to extend her welcome.

Business in the government departments virtually stopped as cabinet officials, senators and the members of the cabinet, gathered to watch the nation's new monster of the air. Navy officers watched her perform with the greater interest because she was her first trial on this side of the Atlantic, her first venture in the hands of American naval men and the first time she had been taken from the air, using helium instead of hydrogen.

The appearance over the American capital of a zeppelin in her war paint, during the eventful days of '17 could scarcely have demoralized more completely the work-a-day life of Washington. But today, the nation found only a whole-hearted welcome, both in her own right and because she symbolized a new friend between the land of her nativity and the country to which she has come.

Three hundred men were formed on Bolling Field to land the ship when she began hovering overhead. They included detachments of sailors and marines from the presidential yacht Mayflower and of men from the naval aviation corps in uniform. Grouped about the field were 200 automobiles. The large space was set aside for those who trudged the distance to get a glimpse at the ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The ZR-3, flying from Lakehurst to Washington for christening, arrived over the capitol at 12:50 p. m.

Flying comparatively low, the big ship circled over the city before going to Bolling Field.

(By The Associated Press.)
LAKEHURST, N. J., Nov. 25.—The German-built, dirigible ZR-3 took the air at 9:05 a. m. at the naval air station today and headed southwest for Bolling Field, Washington, where she will be christened by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge this afternoon.

The big craft made an easy take-off with four of her five motors running as she headed into a steady, light wind. The fifth was set going as the ship rose and soon the ZR-3 was fading away into the haze to the southwest.

Commander Klein's parting word was that he would hustle along to his destination, hoping to arrive there in time to leaf around over Washington before the christening ceremonies. He expects to return here by 9 o'clock tonight.

With a ground wind of moderate force from the north, the ship was taken from her berth at the naval aviation corps in preparation for her flight to Bolling Field, Washington, where she will be christened by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge this afternoon.

Radio Frequency Added

DIAGRAM OF CRYSTAL DETECTOR WITH RADIO FREQUENCY AMPLIFICATION.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

NELA Service Radio Editor

Amplification to crystal reception having been established as practicable, many owners of these simple sets of receivers have tried to learn how to accomplish this.

Audio amplification, usually with two tubes, is practically the same kind of addition to the crystal as it is to the vacuum tube detector.

Here is a step by step radio frequency amplification to an addition of one or two stages of audio amplification, should make a good long distance receiver.

The crystal as a detector may not be as powerful and may not be able to reach as far as the vacuum tube, but within its reach it has been found to furnish clearer reception than the tube.

Parts of Set.

The parts to make up the crystal receiver with a stage of radio frequency amplification are:

L1 and L2, low loss variocoupler.

C1, a .00025 variable condenser.

C2, grid leak and condenser.

R, 500 ohm rheostat.

D, crystal detector.

J, phone jack or phone terminals.

CRAWFORD AND HIS "FOLLIES"

MAJESTIC ALL-WEEK BILL

The Majestic opened the week yesterday with Jack Crawford and his tab show known as the Bon Ton Follies.

A fun show pure and simple, but with plenty of variety and enough spice to make it go well. The bill is called a miniature musical-comedy, with fifteen people in the cast and a chorus of eight high-steppers. It is about as big numerically as some of the road shows. Among the number is little Ruth Graves, juvenile singer and dancer whose work is decidedly clever. Jack Crawford, Georgia comedian, heads the list of entertainers and is seconded by feminine vocalist, a solo dancer and a quartet of singers. These inject plenty of pep and are supplemented by the chorus and the orchestra music complete a variety program.

MOST POWERFUL STATION IS NOW BEING ERECTED

(Chicago Tribune Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The most powerful wireless station in Europe, surpassing by far the Eiffel tower and Neuen stations, is being erected on the banks of Lake Kochelsee, Bavaria. A sensational feature of the new plant is a two mile antenna, which is drawn from the summit of the steep mountain, Herzogstand, 5,500 feet above the sea level, to the foot of the mountain, which is hidden in the water of Lake Kochelsee.

A high tension current of 50,000 volts will be supplied to the new Kochelsee wireless station by Germany's newest hydro-electric plant, Walchenseekraftwerk, which will be completed this month after a twelve year struggle with nature and financial difficulties.

LIKENESS OF 2 WOMEN CAUSES ARREST OF MAN

Striking Resemblance and Coincidences Result in Murder Charge

(By The Associated Press.)
EL DORADO, Ark., Nov. 25.—The striking resemblance of two women living in Smackover, Ark., and a series of coincidences caused the arrest of Tom White, oil field worker, last week it was learned yesterday. White was suspected of being implicated in the death of Mrs. Bessie Agnes Lynch, whose body arrived in Greensboro, N. C., yesterday. A formal charge of murder probably would not have been placed against him had it not been for the striking resemblance.

Mrs. Lynch received injuries in an automobile accident in Smackover. White was with her at the time and told authorities of the events leading up to the wreck. His story was accepted until several persons who claimed to have witnessed the accident came forward and told a tale utterly at variance with that of White.

White stubbornly maintained his original story. Evidence seemed to show what he knew more of the manner in which Mrs. Lynch was hurt than he was divulging and the man was lodged in jail.

At the inquest over the body of Mrs. Lynch the hearing was suddenly stopped when a woman, the image of Mrs. Lynch, made her appearance. When the jury subsided and the man was restored to his seat, the man who bore a resemblance to the dead woman.

Some who had a greater stock of patience continued to hunt for sound waves and thought that perhaps the stations were broadcasting on a Danville so they remained until 11 o'clock in the hope of hearing the answering messages from abroad. Again, only noise developed and instead of the air getting better, as the night went on it grew worse. Fans were looking for some explanation of the proceedings of tests last night and were particularly interested in knowing if the condition was general. Radio experts were of the opinion that the atmospheric condition in this country would not necessitate the American broadcast as the sound waves would pass through the dead area and beyond. Failure to pick up the night's listening might have been due to the profusion of the atmosphere being tonight for the atmosphere is capricious. Sunday night was considered by some listeners in as the best observed for several months and the objectionable features of the night's listening test be in evidence at all process may not be the night's listening test. The British stations are to broadcast tonight between 11 and 12 o'clock.

"Partial breakdown of our Armistice Day program and resultant loss of money."
"Failure to complete our avenue of flags."
"Slowness of renewals in coming in."
"Failure to have a quorum at the last meeting."
"The latter instance, gentlemen, in one of the keenest disappointments I have ever suffered. Out of a total membership of over 400 we had a paltry ten. Such a condition cannot continue if the Legion is to prosper. There were present at the meeting four members of the executive committee. The burden of the cause has been placed on the shoulders of a few men. I am much worried and has kept me from performing business duties in the way I should."
"The nature of the new work I will soon undertake is such that the majority of it must be done at night thus eliminating the meagre time heretofore available for Legion work. If I have been negligent in the past I must perfect be even more so in the future."
"I regret this action exceedingly, gentlemen, but in justice to myself and the Legion I deem such a course necessary and I would thank you to accept this resignation as effective immediately."
"Sincerely yours,"

Sister Ship of Shenandoah Is Americanized

the naval air station, was in command, with Lieut. Commander Maurice Pierce as executive officer. Both had been attached to the Shenandoah, the American-built dirigible, sister ship of the ZR-3, which was also an occupant of Lakehurst hanger. Lieut. Commander Sidney M. Kraus, who with Commander Klein made the trip from Germany in the ZR-3 today was her engineering officer.

Two photographers, one representing the navy and another a news reel corporation, also were aboard.

Early this morning a trap containing six homing pigeons was fastened to the huge ship. The pigeons will be released by Mrs. Coolidge as part of the christening ceremony today and their return here will be hailed as a symbolic completion of the naming of the giant airship.

Because today's flight represented her first trip under American guidance and because of the substitution of helium for hydrogen with which the ZR-3 was inflated for her trip across the Atlantic, officials here were intensely interested in her handling.

EVENT EXPECTED TO BE ELABORATE ONE
(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Bolling field was in trim dress today for the christening of the new dirigible, the ZR-3, as the "Los Angeles."

The air field had been put in readiness for a capacity throng to witness the gala scene of christening of the great air liner whose future of peaceful pursuit is symbolized in the flight of snowwhite pigeons to be released by the first lady of the land as she formally proclaims the ship in her new name. Sparkling toy balloons whose strings will slip from the fingers of the sponsor at the same moment also carried a flavor of the airship's exclusion by prior agreement from the ways of warfare.

As Washington scanned the northern horizon for the coming of the big ship from her Lakehurst hanger, the minute arrangements for her reception were made at the air field. The ceremony was scheduled for 3 o'clock with plans calling for the immediate return of the ship to Lakehurst. A crew of 300 men from the navy yard here and the air station were ready to give a hand in hauling the big ship to earth.

The flight of the ZR-3 here today was to be her first test with helium inflation. Test flights with helium had earlier been made and the air station were ready to give a hand in hauling the big ship to earth.

Thronging similar to those which gathered at Bolling Field to greet the world fliers were prepared for, at the field and elaborate plans were made to give the general public the opportunity to view the huge craft.

Immediately after the ZR-3 is landed the christening will take place. At the moment Mrs. Coolidge releases the pigeons the air station releases the dirigible.

Members of the diplomatic corps, high ranking army and navy officers prepared to go to the field for the ceremony, and among the guests to have places were the four world fliers, headed by Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, who arrived here yesterday to make a final report of their exploit.

To Test Eyes of Traffic Violators In Richmond Court

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 25.—An "eye court" in which all persons charged with violating traffic ordinances will be hailed has been established here in connection with the police court. Hereafter all persons arrested for traffic infractions will be taken before an eye specialist in a room adjacent to police court and their sight tested. Fines will be levied on basis of the report of the medical expert. If the driver's eyes are found to be defective he will be warned to have it perfected. A second offense without treatment for the defect will mean a fine double the amount of the first and a third offense will result in revocation of the driver's permit. Police Justice John Ingram said he will have a record kept of all cases in an effort to prove to members of the general assembly the benefits of a law along these lines in preventing automobile accidents.

TRULY, IN HER PRIME. BEFORE THE OPERATION. TRULY, AS SHE IS TODAY.

By ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer.
CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Thirty years ago Truly Shattuck was the toast of an international stage.
With Lillian Russell, Anna Held and other stars of yesterday, she was a front-row attraction on many Broadway.
But as the years crept on, her sylph-like figure lost its graceful curves. Her waistline jumped from 32 inches to 52. And the scales creaked under the weight of her 202 pounds.
Gone was her fame. Managers started calling her "matronly." Audiences rolled in glee when she toddled across stage.
She had to take to vaudeville and "small-time" parties. She even acted a movie burlesque centering its plot about the typical fat woman trying to reduce.
None, however, could play that role any better than Truly. Diet as she would, she couldn't get rid of her avoirdupois. She went to doctor after doctor, but all they did was tell her to quit eating.
A year ago she quit the stage, determined that age should take its course.
But all the while the footlights lurched her. Yet the footlights didn't want her.
"No use," sighed Truly. "I'd none for. Nobody wants a fat lady except the sideshow."
One friend urged her to have the hated fat actually cut off. Truly assented. Anything to lose it.
But Now She Weighs 132.
So Truly came here for the operation. "A waistline reduction" was made in the skin of the abdomen by Dr. Henry J. Schireson. Several other incisions were made around the back and hips.
Lo and behold, 69 pounds of Truly's fat came off. And her double chin was made single and her face was remodeled all over.
Today Truly's waistline is back to 32 inches. She tips the scales at 132. And she does not look a day more than 30, though she is 58.
But she must throw away all her clothes—$6000 worth, she says. Her very best party dress now fits her nearly twice.
"I don't care, though," she laughs. "I'm going back to lick the world. I want life and love and beauty and success once more. It is like being in heaven."
"I hear you, old footlights. And I'm a coming."
Off stage, Truly's real name is Clarice Ettrilla de Bucharde.

STRANGLES OWN SON TO DEATH AND BURNS BODY, THINKING HIM ANOTHER

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Universal Service Correspondent)
BERLIN, Nov. 25.—A tragic story with dramatic elements that would surpass the imagination of a novelist to surmise, comes today from Klausenburg, formerly in Hungary, but since the war a part of Roumania.

John Szita, returning from the cattle market at Grosswarden, accompanied by his twelve-year-old son, had a premonition that would be held up and robbed of $0,000 in proceeds of his cattle sales. So Szita tied the money in a small bag around the boy's neck.

Half way home Szita's premonition came true when he was attacked and killed. The boy ran to the nearest village, seeking protection, and at the first house he reached he told his tale including the fact that he had the money. The woman of the house comforted him and put him to bed with her own son, aged ten.

Later in the night the woman's husband returned home and she told him the story related by the boy. The husband informed her that he himself was the murderer of the boy's father but that he did not succeed in getting the money.

The man and woman then decided to take the money from the boy and afterwards to hide traces of the crime, planned to burn him in a big bake oven in the house.

The boy, who the pair believed to be asleep, overheard their plan to murder him also. He slipped out of a window and ran to the nearest constabulary. A little while later he returned to the house with two gentlemen who arrested the pair. It was then discovered that the woman had made a mistake in the darkness, having seized and choked her own son to death believing he was the refugee. In her excitement had put his body in the oven. The fire was still burning.

The pair are now in jail.

Says Furnace Victim Was In Normal Mind

heat conduct directly above the furnace door.

Another find which Mr. King said he considers significant was an unturned fruit jar containing about an ounce of crimson fluid, which Chemist C. P. Long said closely resembles human blood.

The lid was found in the fruit storage room adjacent to the furnace room. Bits of tissue such as might have been scraped from the body of a human were found in several places Mr. King announced.

Red fingerprints on a clothes chute door in the cellar were found by Detective Harry Carson.

Rev. Mr. Sheatsley, who with his four children is at Paris, Ohio, visiting relatives, in a telephone conversation said the stains were "probably rabbit blood," he having shot several while hunting on Saturday before the tragedy.

The minister, when informed that a bottle of poisonous acid, which authorities said was missing on the night of the tragedy from the medicine cabinet, had been found in the cellar, said he was glad that it had been located.

The Rev. Mr. Sheatsley believes his wife committed suicide by casting herself into the furnace after becoming violently insane according to a statement he made to Mr. King last Wednesday.

Chemist Long, seeking to verify his conclusion that Mrs. Sheatsley was dead when her body was placed in the furnace, yesterday placed two guinea pigs on hot coals in the fire vault. They scampered about on the coals for a minute and a half and then succumbed. Death was caused by carbon monoxide fumes, Long said.

In Long's report to Prosecutor King on blood taken from the lungs of Mrs. Sheatsley, said there was no trace of carbon monoxide poisoning. This, he said, resulted in his conclusion that she did not breathe after she entered the furnace. Dr. H. M. Brundage, a pathologist, directed the experiment.

DOUBTFUL IF CHAPLIN WILL GET MARRIED

Hollywood Dubious In View of Many "Broken Engagements"

(By The Associated Press.)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 25.—Hollywood, capitol of flimdom, was straining its ears today for a far-off tinkle of wedding bells at Empalme, 500 miles down the Mexican coast from here, where Charlie Chaplin was expected to wed his leading woman, Lita Grey, at or before high noon.

Though word from Guaymas, near Empalme, was that a marriage license was ready and all details of the ceremony arranged, including the reservation of a honeymoon State room aboard a steamer leaving Guaymas for a port in the State of Nayarit, another 500 miles down the coast, skeptical Hollywood did not conceal its unwillingness to accept reported plans as an accurate forecast of today's Chaplin program.

Many an apparently well authenticated report that Charles Spencer Chaplin, divorced by Mildred Harris Chaplin in 1920, was about to wed again had gone the way of unfulfilled predictions. Students of flimdom's complicated engagement archives pointed to the long list of actresses whose names at one time or another have been coupled with that of custard pie comedian as "bride-to-be," only to be eliminated by later developments.

Hollywood history teaches the seers proclaim that it will be time enough to congratulate Chaplin when Mexican official records show that the wedding has taken place.

Meanwhile Guaymas dispatches related that Chaplin and Miss Grey would have been married a month ago were it not for a Mexican law requiring publication of intention to marry at least 18 days before the wedding. Miss Grey and Chaplin's secretary, awaiting the comedian's arrival from Los Angeles, were said to be considerably agitated because news of the wedding plans had leaked north and over the Mexican boundary, and Miss Grey was quoted as saying the ceremony might after all be postponed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—"The modern woman's clothes must express more than beauty and imagination and what we call style," says Henri Bendel, New York's foremost designer and importer.

"They must fit into the mood of the hour. They must express 1924 no matter if the inspiration was 16th century."

"They must fit into the pattern of the day and become a part of the general panorama of loveliness, if a woman is to enjoy them and be distinctive."

"A designer to be successful must feel the trend of the times and know how it may best be expressed in lines and textures," he went on.

"He may prefer the classic lines of the Greek robe or the picturesque jeweled scarfs."

Jeweled scarfs are a way of adding gorgeousness to the evening costume. They are made of delicate chiffon embroidered in brilliant and synthetic jewels.

FRINGED SKIRT
The fringed skirt is very much liked for dancing and dinner gowns and is always worn over a slight, sheathlike foundation.

CHARMING GOWN
Blue taffeta with large overplaids of white makes a charming gown when collar and cuffs of white ermine are added.

PINK VELVET
A gown of shell pink velvet has set in gods of brown tulle that give a full, bouffant appearance to the skirt.

YOUTHFUL FROCK
A stunning and youthful frock of red wool is trimmed with black velvet and cut steel buttons and has a rolled collar of velvet.

Candy Cream
Four cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups whipping and table cream combined, 1-16 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup blanched and shredded almonds, 1-2 cup candied cherries cut into small pieces, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Stir cream of tartar into sugar. Put sugar and cream into a smooth saucepan. Bring slowly to the boiling point and cook, stirring frequently until a soft ball is formed in cold water. Do not stir until the sirup begins to boil. Remove from the fire and let stand until cold. Add salt and vanilla and stir until creamy and stiff until creamy and thick. Turn onto a marble slab or large platter and knead in fruit and nuts. Knead until soft and put into a square pan lined with paraffin paper. Cover and let stand in a cold place for 24 hours. Cut in squares when ready to use.

ROANOKE EXCEEDS CHEST ALLOTMENT

(By The Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24.—Richmond's community fund campaign, which was to have closed today, will be continued one day longer in an attempt to reach the set goal of four hundred thousand dollars. Subscriptions today amounting to $65,118 brought the total amount already raised by the workers to $352,188.

ROANOKE, Nov. 24.—Roanoke filled its community chest to overflowing at the close of its seven day campaign today. Contributions pledged during the drive totaled $111,538.84, which exceeded the goal of $114,712.50 by $226.34. This is the final audited total and speaks well for the trustees and industrious workers who have conducted this drive.

Mrs. J. M. Barker, of Axton, was a visitor in town yesterday.

quality of the moyen age gown, but he must feel these in terms of the 20th century."

To illustrate his point, Mr. Bendel explained that the straight chemise frock which has become almost uniform is not a costume.

It is easily copied, adapts itself to all figures and tends to make women look alike instead of individual.

But the straight, rather unadorned frock suits a strenuous age that moves speedily and people who think quickly, speak rapidly and have no time for the gracious courtesies and formalities of a less commercial age.

"But in the simplicity of today," Mr. Bendel points out, "there are many pitfalls. Line and cut must be perfect as well as workmanship and materials. Accessories must not conflict with the costume."

"And most of all a woman must have an instinct for lines. She must know how to make her lines seem long and flowing if she is short, and to camouflage a bad neck or shoulders without seeming to do so."

UNSUCCESSFUL WIVES—NO. 6
The Mother Type

By CYNTHIA GREY

I never have known a girl who "babied" her husband as Leota Woods did the first year she and Dick were married—or a wife who neglected her husband more after that first year.

The baby came along about that time, and Leota forgot that she had a husband, a home, and a group of friends in her absorption over that baby—the King, she called him.

Before the arrival of the King, Leota had always waited on Dick in every way.

She used to tell about it proudly. And I think Dick wouldn't have been so helpless if she hadn't taken such good care of him—and then suddenly left him to his own devices.

"Leota doesn't know I'm alive any more," Dick said to me one evening when we had gone there to pay a call.

"Leota and I haven't had breakfast together three months in the last three months," Dick said. "She's always taking care of the baby. And at night she's so tired that she falls asleep in her chair."

Leota started to flare up. "Let's have a hand or two of bridge now," I suggested, hoping to keep the peace.

We had played two hands when Leota put her finger-tip to her lips. From upstairs could be heard a faint wail.

"Play this hand without me, will you?" Leota asked, and ran up the stairs. We stayed an hour longer but she didn't come down. I truly think she had forgotten our existence.

But more than that, she has forgotten Dick's existence almost. Any man who is out with his cronies three nights a week is not happy in his home.

Leota's devotion to her baby is a beautiful thing, but she has let it shove her husband out of her life. Years from now she will probably be one of the women who call themselves neglected wives, and wonder if she'll realize that she herself sent her husband away from her.

Beauty
A Gleamy Mass of Hair
35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls: Try this. When combing and crossing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling. You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy as if mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful refreshing dressing.—adv.

The photograph shows an adaptation of a Callot model Mr. Bendel made for Mary Young, the actress, and illustrates how much elaboration and style may be put into a simple chemise type of frock without impractical for dancing or theater wear.

"The back is extremely low," Bendel pointed out, "because Miss Young has a back perfect enough to stand such revelation. But this same model could have been built up in the back to suit any shoulder line."

"The white ermine coat is in perfect proportion for her figure. Had she been shorter, or taller, it would have been proportioned differently."

"There are stout women today parading about in skirts 16 inches from the floor, presenting pictures of grotesqueness that makes them positively repulsive."

"The same gown dropped to a conservative distance from the floor would have style and beauty."

"There can be no beauty without balance or proportion."

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

I have been worrying, Leslie dear, about you getting settled in our new home. Carpenter and painters are always a strain on one's nerves and just now you want as much peace and quiet as possible.

Sweetheart, we are going to call that baby Leslie. I know you think I am an unimaginative person and I am not hard and rather cross at times but I have built many a fortress since I knew that baby was coming to us.

Leslie, darling, no man in the world ever had a wife like mine. I do not think any other woman in the world could live with me, but I love you, love you with every ounce of my body and every thought of my soul. I want you to realize this for I know my shortcomings perhaps better than anyone else knows them. I know I probably will make you unhappy many times in the future with my thoughtlessness, but I want you to understand that selfish and thoughtless and self-centered as I am I love you as much as I am capable of loving anyone.

Please, please, wife of mine, do not forget that I do not realize perfectly that all the great things that have come to me the last few years have come to me through you. I cannot talk of it to anyone, least of all to you, but deep in my heart I know that without you and your ever-redeeming love I would be nothing.

There, Leslie dear, I have written it out of my system and I feel better. I wish I could say to you always all the love that I have in my heart, but I can not.

This is the first letter I have written with my own hand for a long time, but Leslie dear, I wanted to tell you all that you are to me and I could not find any other person to know the blindest truth.

Darling mine I hope you will be as forgiving in the future as you have been in the past for otherwise I am afraid that I will be a very unhappy man. It is only forgiving wives that make marriage a success. In my heart I know this is true, for no one has ever needed forgiveness more than I.

No, dear, I am not asking you to forgive me anything yet and at the present moment I have every intention of being very good in the future, but I am quick-tempered, as you know, suspicious and jealous—there, I guess I've enumerated all my worst faults where you are concerned.

I have a telegram from Syd. He will not be here until the last of the week. I am rather sorry because you know I don't like my own society at all, and with Mrs. Atherton going away tomorrow I shall be right lonely. Presumo I'll cultivate the Burkes. Ruth has already asked me to dinner, and I shall expect I shall have to dine with mother soon and then, of course, I am in for all sorts of complaints. Why is it, dear, that old people get settled into a rut and make themselves so unhappy when they might be just the opposite. You and I won't be that way, will we? We'll be Darby and Joan with our children and grandchildren around us. It is a pleasant thought but truly I never dreamed that it would come to me.

Always your husband, JACK

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. ## R. M. I. STUDENTS AND FACULTY TO KEEP THANKSGIVING SPIRIT

Thanksgiving Day, around which all social activities center this week, will be celebrated here very quietly.

There will be many informal family dinner-parties, theater-parties, and other informal affairs, but most of the young people will be out of town attending the football games and dances at the Virginia colleges and universities.

Today and tomorrow the Broadway theater has provided an appropriate approach to the great national day of Thanksgiving by presenting on the screen many episodes of the life of Abraham Lincoln, who, while president of the United States, issued the proclamation setting apart the fourth

Thursday in November to be observed by the people as national Thanksgiving Day.

The schools will hold their usual festivities together, true to the spirit of the day, rather than by seeking pleasures elsewhere.

Thanksgiving at R. M. I. At Randolph-Macon Institute the faculty, the students and the board of trustees and their wives will gather in the school dining-room at 6 o'clock Thursday evening to carry out a well prepared program, as is the custom there every year.

In the center of the room canopies have been erected to give the appearance of a "Castle of Dreams," and in the midst of it, the senior class will gather around a long table on which the fruits of the season will form the motif of decoration.

At other tables will be the juniors, sophomores and freshmen, together with the members of the faculty and visitors.

The prevailing color in all the decorations will be the color, that being the color of dreams and upon dreams and visions of the future, or "castles in the air." The central idea will run through toasts and songs all of which will be original and will be given by Miss Sallie Johnson, president of the senior class; Miss Dorothy Senter, Miss Sallie Cowell, Miss Frances Parker, Miss Helen Sublett, Miss Bettie Chambers, Miss Clara Matthews, Miss Helen McDonough, Miss Mary Belle Thompson and Miss Angeline Peters.

After dinner, a one-act play will be presented in the auditorium by the pupils of Miss Pansy Wood, director of the Dramatic Art department. The cast will be composed of the following: Miss Winifred Buckingham, Miss Virginia Wilkins, Miss Sallie Cowell, Miss Frances Gregory, Miss Ann Purcell, Miss Irma Hall, Committee: Miss Pansy Wood, Miss Mabel Kennedy, Miss Martha Kelly, Miss Margaret Nattin, Mrs. Julia B. Thompson.

JOHN POWELL IN BRILLIANT RECITAL

One of Great Pianists of Today Impresses Appreciative Musical Gathering

The first of a series of musical events sponsored by the Music Study club was given at Randolph-Macon Institute last night when John Powell rendered a classical and modern program in his usual finished style. The artist's selection for his Danville appearance was all that could be wished for. It embraced a Beethoven sonata (opus 21); the Schumann Carnival with its twenty-one varying moods of a festive day; a Chopin group of four, all exquisitely rendered; a Liszt rhapsody and last, but of major importance to his Danville audience, the player's own musical interpretation of a day at the Fair, a vibrant suite and played in Danville as a whole for the first time.

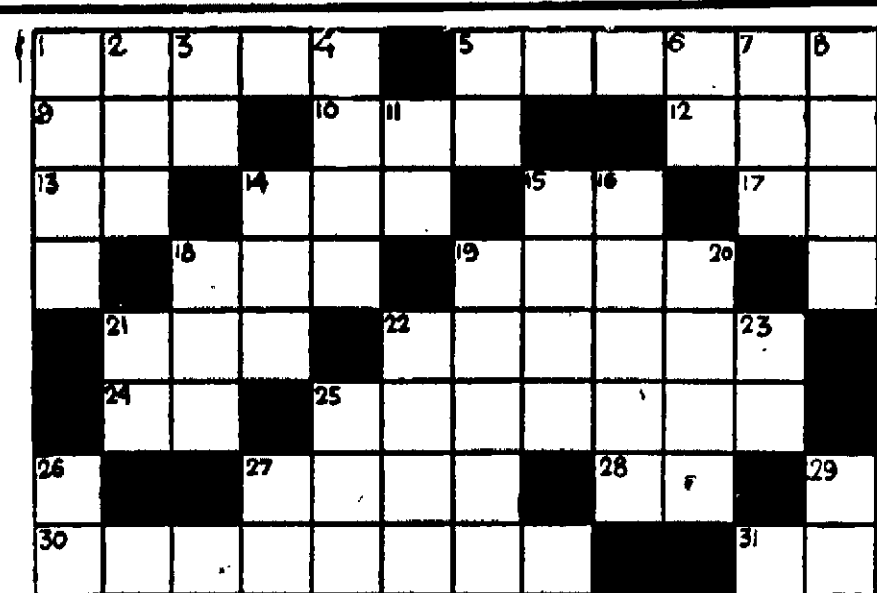

Mr. Powell was accorded a generous, even enthusiastic, welcome upon his return to this city, and with equal grace he responded, giving as encores another Schumann number, his own "Turkey in the Straw," and a Chopin polonaise.

The four movements of the Beethoven sonata, three of them noteworthy for their delicate phrasing, all of them superbly given, and then passed to the major work of the evening, the extended Schumann number, which was played with great spirit. This comprehensive group depicts the spirit of carnival with a series of motifs written around the accepted characters to be found in it. It afforded an interesting contrast with the Powell group, which interprets the present day evolution of the carnival.

Mr. Powell has named his suite "At the Fair." The analogy can be quickly perceived, and the real point of interest lies in the different method of treatment. Mr. Powell is essentially a realist, and he injects high color into his music and is bold in his phrasing. For instance the Hoochee-Coochee dance is unblushingly given in all of its barbaric splendor and syncopation. The bedlam of conflicting sound at any rural fair is incorporated in such movements as the merry-go-round with its brazen organ, the mystic Circusian, clumsy music representing the clowns the snake-charmer and finally that brief but frenzied banjo picking which stands alone among Mr. Powell's works. The whole suite has a compelling appeal, which perhaps explains the immediate and sustained response it received. He followed it with his now widely known interpretation of a country dance and variations written round as simple a theme as the "Turkey in the Straw."

The artist last night was at his best and gave renewed evidence of his place among the really great pianists of the present day.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, A GREAT PICTURE

Screen Romance of Life of Man Who Rose from Obscurity to High Position

The picturization of the principal events in the life of Abraham Lincoln, a man of sorrows as well as honors, whose career involves romance as well as tragedy, was shown at three afternoon and two evening presentations of the well constructed screen story of the native of Kentucky, destined to become president of the republic in an epochal quadrennium wherein the men of the North and the men of the South came to know each other in the awful test of a great war. The elder generation, looking back in memory to a time when Lincoln was cordially despised by the people of the South because he had used the power of the government to coerce a State and many States, must have realized in seeing this screen story how far the masses have gone in four or five decades and how dormant the old sectional antagonism has become in this third decade of the Twentieth Century—almost sixty years after the death of Lincoln.

This screen drama, or romantic story emphasizes the possibilities of America and how the highest offices and honors are open to any man who has the qualities of strength and potential greatness; it does not tear a gapold wounds, but is rather tactful in avoiding anything that would re-awaken old and almost forgotten memories, or prejudices. It tells effectively, attractively and at times dramatically the life-story of this man destined to unusual and without responsibilities which culminated in his attainment of the presidency. The loves of Lincoln, the flow of romance, the part played by him in American history, lighten the tragic close of a remarkable career. As a screen production it ranks with the greatest yet essayed, and incidentally it touches, and retouches epochs in our history, and the memories awakened are mellowed by time and a larger realization of what Lincoln endured and suffered.

As for the play itself, Mr. Billings, who essays the title-role, looks the part admirably in the sense that it is a materialization of the rugged features and the lank figure of the man, Lincoln. The character, of course, dominates the picture and is the only part sufficiently important to evoke criticism. Many critics have characterized Mr. Billings' work in this romantic screen-story as an excellent reproduction of the appearance and bearing of the real Lincoln, as few still survive recall him. Not only does he look the part, but he lives it, giving a vivid and sympathetic portrayal of the career of the man, from obscurity to high position and tragic end. The career of Lincoln addresses anew what constitutes real Americanism and the opportunities in a democracy like this.

The pictured romance of the life of Lincoln will be shown on the Broadway again today and tomorrow, the hours announced being: 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 P. M.

Knights Templar Attend Services

Dove Commandery No. 7, Knights Templar, on Sunday worshipped at the Calvary Methodist church and heard an excellent and appropriate sermon by the Rev. J. S. Gresham, pastor of the church, who had been invited by the commandery to preach to that body. Eminent Commander E. H. Marshall and his entire corps of officers were present, and the knights in their showy regalia made a fine appearance with no fewer than eighty-three men in line.

The commandery men assembled in their asylum in the temple shortly after 10 A. M., where they donned their uniforms and then went to the top of North Main street hill by trolley cars. There the line was formed and the organization marched as a body to the church, where a special section had been reserved for them by the ushers.

At the conclusion of the services, the commandery retired from the church in inverse order, reformed the lines and began to march back to the temple. Besides the Knights Templar, a large congregation attended the service.

RADIO ON LIFEBOAT

LONDON—The first lifeboat with radio to be carried on a cargo vessel was taken on the steamer Geraldine Mary, 7,200 tons, which left the Clyde for Newfoundland recently. The 26-foot lifeboat, fitted with a seven horsepower gasoline engine, has a triangular aerial hoisted on two masts, and the transmitter is operated by an alternator.

Sage Tea Darkens Hair to Any Shade

Don't Stay Gray! Here's An Old-Time Recipe That Anybody Can

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyneth Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by this addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Trust Prosecution Has Wide Interest

Widespread interest is manifested in the indictment of big oil corporations by the Corporation court of the city of Danville at the November term of that court on charges of violating the Virginia anti-trust statute enacted at the last session of the General Assembly. The indictments are set for trial at the January term of the court. As an evidence of the widespread interest and the importance attached to this prosecution under the new statute, it may be stated that Clerk of Courts Otis Bradley has received a number of requests from distant points for copies of the bills of indictment, indicating the purpose of the corporations indicted to make a strong fight to win acquittal.

Already it seems assured that Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Carter will be craved against some of the ablest "trust lawyers" in the country in his prosecution of this case. The statute under which the indictment was reported is said to be modeled on the federal anti-trust law and to have been drawn with care. This being the first test of the new statute and the first instance in which a municipality through its criminal court has institute proceedings, the outcome of the trial being awaited with peculiar interest in many cities. In the event the statute develop a loophole or any weakness, this will at least be discovered and will enable the legislature to "mend its grip" and perfect the statute.

On the other hand, should a conviction result in the trial of any of these indictments, there is some speculation as to the possibilities of other prosecutions, not only here, but in other cities of the State. Hence the interest and concern with which the outcome is being awaited. Trial of the case may be postponed when it is called on the January docket, if any good cause for delay is ascribed, but so far as now known, there will be no inordinate delay in the pressing of the indictments to trial.

Impressions Will Not Injure Baby

BY DR. STANLEY GIBSON
Attending Physician, Children's
Ward, Wesley Hospital, Chicago

Perhaps the most widespread and persistent superstition for the expectant mother is that mental impressions may influence the physical development of her unborn child.

Her unpleasant experiences are supposed to result in marking or maiming the baby. This belief has caused so much anxiety that it should be frankly discussed.

In the first place, it is hard to see how many babies would escape if this belief had any real foundation for who in the course of nine months has not met with some shocking experience or heard some depressing news or been subjected to acute mental anxiety of some sort.

Belief Is Absurd

The expectant mother is no exception to this rule. Yet how rarely does it happen that her baby shows any ill effect which might possibly be attributed to her emotional disturbance.

Moreover, a few simple anatomical facts will aid in showing how absurd is the belief in maternal impressions.

The only communication between mother and baby is by way of the placenta, and therefore it would be only through this organ that such impressions could be conveyed. Yet there are no nerves in the placenta to carry impulses. There is not even an artery or vein.

The blood of the mother passing through the placenta supplies the nourishment which provides for the growth of the child. To suppose that the unhappy state of mind of the mother could be exerted upon the baby through the food supply which she gives it would require a long stretch of imagination.

Another fact not generally known is that the physical form of the baby is fixed with a two months after pregnancy has begun. So that any harmful maternal influence would have to be exerted previous to this time. Yet it is unusually late in the prenatal period that the mother is disturbed by such fears.

When one considers the rapid multiplication of cells which occur in the development of the human embryo and the marvelous differentiation into complex organs and tissues, the wonder is that irregularities do not occur more frequently.

Occur but Rarely
In the rare instances where they do occur, they are in no way dependent upon the state of mind of the mother. It is true that one now and then hears stories of a baby's being marked where the mother has a seemingly convincing explanation for it.

Yet, when so many others have similar experiences without a ray of light, the case which now and then occurs can fully be explained on the grounds of coincidence.

What has been said above does not mean that the state of mind of the mother is altogether without effect upon her baby. It is true that she cannot influence the baby's development directly but her own physical well being is dependent at least in some degree upon her mental condition.

If then she keeps herself in a happy frame of mind, is careful about her diet, personal hygiene, exercise, rest and fresh air she will be doing all that she possibly can to furnish her baby with a sound brain and body.

TOO MUCH 'OLOGY IN HIGH SCHOOLS, MANUFACTURER SAYS

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Alonzo B. See, bitter foe of the high school system, when not busy manufacturing elevators in Brooklyn, is soon to issue a book telling what he believes is wrong with education in this country. Mr. See still believes that women's colleges ought to be burned by the K. K. K. or some other rectifying order. He has, very frankly, held the opinion for some time that he admits he is more than sold on the idea every time he notices that Adelphi college is having difficulty in raising $250,000 to complete an endowment of $1,000,000 necessary to carry on its work. None of that money will ever come from him, he declared.

"I've put all my ideas on education in this book I've written," said Mr. See tonight at the Westchester-Biltmore club where he was spending the weekend. "They're very simple. All they call for is a return to the little red school house."

"What we teach our folks today is much too fussy. Nothing but ologies—psychology, psychology, biology, entomology, and the Lord only knows what—ology! It's all nonsense. We ought to teach our young boys and girls how to read and write and how to spell. We ought to teach them a few simple studies and see to it that they are thoroughly understood."

"We don't need technical training," he exclaimed with a wave of the hand. "We just need a little common sense. That's all my business demand. Just a bit of common sense."

PAUL WHITEMAN IN CONCERT STARTING AT 12:01 O'CLOCK

By Universal Service

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 25.—An enthusiastic audience greeted Paul Whiteman and his orchestra at the Majestic theater where he appeared in concert tonight, starting at a minute after midnight. The unprecedented success was made after the law and order committee of the Williamsport ministerial association advised the local theater management of grave consequences which might result from his attempt to give the concert on Sunday.

The law and order committee saw in the Sunday concert the possible establishment of a precedent which would pave the way for future Sunday attractions, including motion pictures and Sunday baseball. So yesterday the local ministers preached on subjects pertinent to blue laws. "Do blue laws take the sun out of Sunday?" and "Church and Theater," were typical topics.

Mr. C. C. Coppicus, Whiteman's manager, learned that the music lovers in this city wanted the concert but not a refund for tickets already bought, and he arranged the unprecedented performance. Mr. Coppicus stated that the members of the orchestra would attend services in one of the leading churches in the city before the concert, following which the Elks banqueted the orchestra at their club house.

FOOTBALL QUESTIONS

If You Have Some Question to Ask About Football Write—

LAWRENCE PERRY.

Special Football Correspondent of The Bee, 814 World Building, New York

QUESTION—Team D is leading by the score 7 to 6. Team A has the ball on Team D's 25 yard line. It is fourth down. Team A tries a drop kick which is blocked. A half back of Team A going after the ball accidentally kicks the ball behind the goal posts of Team D. He then falls on the ball. Is this a touchdown? What is it, if not so?

ANSWER—It is a foul committed by the member of Team A since it makes no difference whether a ball is accidentally kicked or kicked on purpose.

QUESTION—Team A has the ball on last down, eight to go. The quarter back calls for a field goal try, not that he expects to make it but thinking if the ball did not cross the end line it would be treated as a punt.

ANSWER—The question is not quite clear. If a dropkick goes over the goal line without crossing the cross bar of the goal it is a touchback. If it falls short of the goal it may be run back. If it goes back of the end line it is still a touchdown.

QUESTION—In the case of a forward pass Team A threw the ball and it was intercepted but not caught by a member of Team B. Should the ball be thrown or to where center passed it by?

ANSWER—To spot where center passed it by.

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

(Copyright 1924, By The Bee)

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 25.—The California-Stanford game played in the wonderful California stadium Saturday was one exciting and interesting game that the writer has witnessed this season. From the first quarter until the final whistle blew the game was so filled with thrills, fine displays of fighting spirit and splendid football that picking either team to win was fraught with uncertainty.

There was more open play than the writer has heretofore witnessed in any two or three games combined. Forward passing, brilliant running and for the most part excellent handling of the ball marked the struggle.

Pacific Coast football as demonstrated by the two undefeated teams of the Far Western Conference also may be put down as equal to that of the very best teams in the east.

For California, Horrell played a star game. But Stanford, forewarned of his prowess kept her line plunging plays well out of Horrell's reach—and very wisely. Inlay made some brilliant runs in fact during the third period of the game when California swept ahead of Stanford two field goals with three touchdowns, he was the terror of the Stanford team.

The punting of both teams was extraordinarily good. The tackling also was consistent and hard and it was only occasional burst of speed on the part of one or another of the backfield men that enabled him to elude the tackles.

In the third period California started smashing the middle of Stanford's line and at times seemed to be literally tearing it to pieces. California also had a very pretty screened forward pass which may be worked to perfection and which, for some minutes, had the Stanford team quite up in the air.

Coach Andy Smith's players varied this with a cut-in play into the line which had a lot of power. California's split line formation with the end moved out from tackle and inlay back on a diagonal line outside the end proved a good deal of a puzzle to Stanford and, had the game depended on running plays, California would have come off the field without question.

But Glenn Warner produced some passes that proved their worth in the very first period. Their early success showed, however, that they were thinking as to what might happen. Stanford concluded to stop plugging the line and wearing themselves out in their own territory and instead turned more largely to this highly successful method of attack.

And in the fourth period this is just what Stanford did. Despite California's desperate attempts to halt the Palo Alto over head plays and hold their 20 to 6 lead, Stanford put the ball across the line for two touchdowns—and tied the score.

Both California and Stanford had opportunities to show how they could stand up under adversity. Make an uphill fight and come back with high fire courage and skill. First it was California, who refused to be discouraged by a handicap of six points scored by Stanford from two field goals. Stanford had the turn, for the American Athletic Association followed the collapse of his deal for the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. Griffith said a deal with the former club would not fall within the intent of his agreement, which was to give him his release.

"A deal with the St. Paul club would not let Johnson stay home any more than his pitching for Washington—and I positively would not give him his release for it," Griffith said.

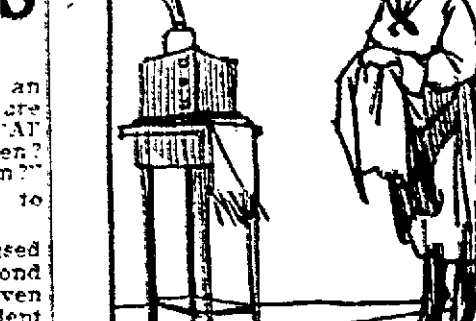

The club president gave Washington fans further hope that Johnson would carry on for the champions again next season by announcing that he had offered his choice of two contracts, one for a year and the other for two years, at a salary increase above the $12,000, the pitcher is reported to have received last season. He has not yet accepted Griffith said.

WALT JOHNSON OFFERED CHOICE OF 2 CONTRACTS

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Walter Johnson, pitching mainstay of the world champion Senators, will be rewarded for his long service to the club by his release only if he is able to close some ownership deals with another club that will fit in with his desire to settle down permanently with his family in the west.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, made plain this position of the management last night in scouting reports of an effort to interest Johnson in the St. Paul club of the American Association following the collapse of his deal for the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. Griffith said a deal with the former club would not fall within the intent of his agreement, which was to give him his release.

"A deal with the St. Paul club would not let Johnson stay home any more than his pitching for Washington—and I positively would not give him his release for it," Griffith said.

QUAKERS PLAN REVENGE IN TURKEY DAY CONTEST

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—An aroused Quaker refuses to creep into a storm cellar, although an Ottoman Tornado is sweeping down on Philadelphia. Steeped in victory the Pennsylvania expects to turn the big wind of Cornell, which for three seasons swept all opposition, into a harmless zephyr when the clash on Franklin field Thanksgiving day in their 31st annual struggle.

Pennsylvania, perhaps, has reason to anticipate a day of revenge for other reverses at the hands of Gil Dobie's teams for it remains undefeated this year, the only state upon its record being a tie game with Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvanians have 22 victories, 7 defeats and a tie. But Cornell, despite her losses to Rutgers, Williams and Dartmouth, is recognized as having a combination of power which may be uncovered at any moment. From present indications the teams will meet with practical equality.

GERMAN'S DEPRECIATED PAPER MONEY BOOM TO WIESBADEN

WIESBADEN.—Depreciated paper money was not an unmixing course for Wiesbaden. Fire destroyed the interior of the municipal opera house at the time Germany's money was in bad shape and the residents of this famous watering-place were in despair. But committees organized, raised what money they could abroad and at home and began the restoration of the building which was indispensable to a city largely dependent upon tourists and visitors who come to take the cure.

While the restoration of the opera house was in progress the paper mark declined at such a rapid rate that the funds held in foreign currency met the cost in a miraculous manner and the builders were paid off without further campaigns for funds. So Wiesbaden has a better opera house than it had before and no debt was entailed.

Why England Is Minus A-1 Boxers

(By Universal Service.)
LONDON, Nov. 24.—Lord Decles, one of England's most famous sportsmen, feels keenly the lack of good boxers in Britain.
"Much has been said and written lately concerning the dearth of English boxers," said Lord Decles today. "Sporting writers have lamented our alleged inability to put forward anything approaching a world champion. After the boxing match in which an English champion has come off second best, it is further suggested that we are losing our national reputation in the fields of international sport."

"The fact that boxing has developed in other lands has been entirely overlooked, and with fifty countries taking up boxing today in place of the half-dozen or so of ten, fifteen, or twenty years ago, when (great Britain had the best of the world's champions, the situation has completely changed."

"There is not the slightest reason why this country should be a position any longer to monopolize the championship of the world (professional and amateur) at any sport. If we can keep round about or near the top it is as much as we can expect."

"The trouble in England is not that we take our sport too seriously, or some people imagine, but that we do not take it seriously enough. In the United States a boxer would have to win thirty or forty fights and go through years of grueling training before a promoter would put him forward in a big fight. In this country a boxer will only be in training for about six months before he is matched against a well-known man."

"Another reason why our professional boxing is so low in quality is the absence of any body in this country having control of the sport. Any Tom, Dick or Harry can promote fights and leave big men stranded in the ring, and when the fight is shown by the recent Wembley fiasco and other examples of a similar nature."

In France and America boxing is under one head, champions are named, and when a champion is named, he is the champion of the world, and the orders of the controlling body. "Why is association football so well controlled in England? Because the football association controls the whole game both professional and amateur. The same principle applies in cricket."

"We must look for a body who will rule our realm of boxing and direct it to a healthier state."

DEMPSEY PROMISES A CLIENT FOR A PLASTIC SURGEON

(By Universal Service.)

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Jack Dempsey has had about all the plastic surgery he is going to need, but he's entirely satisfied about the science or art of plastic surgery. He's enthusiastic to the point where he promises he will provide a client to the nearest plastic surgeon, the customer being the new bird that asks him if there is anything in his report of engagement to Estelle Taylor, screen star.

Someone discovered the film actress was staying at the Copley Plaza. It's only a short time ago that Jack and Estelle were reported to be betrothed. The story went the circle around the country and would not down until the young woman's husband stepped out from his cashier's cage in a Philadelphia bank, and put the question on the romance. But here's Jack in Boston, and Estelle's engagement and also Estelle, although the latter would not account for her presence.

Jack was much surprised when he was informed that the young woman was in town. Accordingly, Jack will be asked all over again whether he is engaged to Estelle and the cashier will have to step out of his cage once more to tell the world that he is still a husband.

At any rate, Estelle made it plain last night she wanted to hear nothing more about marrying Dempsey.

Lime Diet For Teeth.

In order that teeth may not decay, it is especially necessary that the diet be right. It is all right to campaign for clean teeth. It is all right to have tooth brushing drills in school, but it is more necessary that the diet of the growing child be right. The element of diet that must be right in quantity and quality is lime. Not only must there be enough lime in the diet, but it must be absorbable and there must be mordants to fit it in the tissues.

The best mordant is phosphorus of the right right. Just now they are advising that cod liver oil be given because it contains radiated phosphorus of just the right kind. The next step will be to mordant the lime by feeding the child some other form of radiated fat, or radiated food not fat, or even by radiating the child. We may hear of the advice "to prevent decay of teeth in children put them in the sunlight or expose them to light from a quartz lamp."

Dr. May Mallanby compared the amount of tooth decay in the groups of children fed on special diets:
Group A: 2 to 1½ pints of milk, 2 to ½ ounce bread, 1 ounce butter, 1½ ounces sugar; ½ ounce rice, 1½ ounces meat; 2 ounces potato; 2 ounces of other vegetables; cocoa made with milk; 1 egg; ½ orange or ½ tomato and 3 to 5 teaspoonful of cod liver oil daily.

Group B got daily: ¾ to ½ pint milk; 5 ounces of bread; 1 ounce oleomargarine; ounces sugar; 2 to 4 ounces oatmeal; 1 ounce rice; 1½ ounces meat; 4 ounces potato; 2 ounces other vegetables; cocoa made with water; very little egg; ½ orange or ½ tomato; no cod liver oil.

At the end of the prolonged period the teeth of the children in group A were in much better condition than those in group B. It was not only that the diet given in group A was richer in lime, it also contained cod liver oil to make the lime set in the tissues and especially the teeth and the bones. It is well to remember that the development stage of the tooth is the time of greatest importance so far as decay is concerned.

The milk teeth begin forming several months before the baby is born. Therefore, the prospective mother should take lime rich foods and the substances which make them "bite in," as the drier would say. The for-

MR. K. ROCKNE

The matter of naming the Grade A coach of the car-clipping and rib-busting business is somewhat complicated because of the difficulty some people have in pronouncing Knute Rockne the right way.

Mr. Rockne may not be the greatest tutor of pluck logic in the tax-ridden universe, but if he isn't saphires make undesirable jewelry and snowdrifts are fine things to use for fuel.

It is said of Rockne that he can take eleven huskies who never saw a football and transform them into a winning combination. This isn't giving him his full credit of groceries.

Mr. Rockne is the kind of coach who can take eleven unfilled uniforms, in fairly presentable condition, and make Walter Camp break down and sob. "Enough, enough!"

Every year he loses from five to eleven stars and bobs up the following fall with a gang of head crushers strong enough to persuade an unamused traffic cop to a fleeting moment of politeness.

Around Rockne are built no legends of mystifying systems or magical wizardry. The gent simply knows his onions and on the face of the day's returns he seems to know them just a shade better than the rest of the field.

Moral victories are something which are not tolerated in the Rockne scheme. The Fighting Irish, including the Schwartzbeigs, the Choyneks and the Coveleskies, are sent out to return with their head-guards or in them.

One answer to Rockne's success is his willingness to try anything once. He doesn't wait to see how a square-cornered derby will look on the other guy before trying one on his own noodle.

This is the era of the electric light, yet a lot of Rockne's rivals are still reading the rules under the glare of a kerosene lamp.

In Paris Notre Dame is a cathedral, in South Bend, Ind., it is a football team. When you've seen one or both you have seen everything.

A fish's age can be told by looking into its ear, according to a Toronto scientist.

Griffith Offers Johnson Contract

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Clark C. Griffith, president of the Washington baseball team, said today that Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher, had not signed a new contract with the Senators, but that Joe Engel, scout, had been authorized to offer Johnson the choice of two contracts, both providing for increases in salary.

Mr. Griffith made his statement, however, on the golf links, and there was a possibility, he indicated, that a signed contract either was in the mails or in the unopened correspondence at headquarters of the world champions.

Both propositions offered Johnson, Griffith said, called for increases over the $12,000 the star twirler is reported to have received last year, one being for one year and the other for two. He added that there was no foundation for rumors that Johnson was to receive $30,000 a year. The $12,000 salary he remarked, was on a par with the highest paid to any pitcher in baseball.

EGYPTIAN PREMIER RECEIVES OVATION

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 24.—A new government, headed by Zikar Pasha, president of the senate, has taken control in Egypt. Zikar Pasha, having complied with the British demands as far as he deemed expedient—an apology, the payment of indemnity, and the promise to punish the assassins of Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar of the Egyptian army—withdraw from the premiership, and his resignation immediately was accepted by King Faud.

Zikar Pasha also takes the office of foreign affairs, until it is known whether Ahmed Zulficar Pasha, minister at Rome, to whom the portfolio has been offered will accept.

Other members of the new cabinet as officially announced are: Communications, Nekhl Aguzel; Ministry of Education and Justice, Khashab Pasha; war, General Sadek Yahia Pasha; public works, Hassan Muharrem Bey; agriculture, Mohammed Said Abu Ali Pasha; pious foundations, Mohammed Slicky Pasha.

On the assembling of the chamber this evening the former premier, Zikar Pasha, received an ovation. He announced he had tendered his resignation on receipt of Viscount Allenby's note on November 22, but the king asked him to reconsider his decision. When he was notified today of the seizure of the customs by the British he informed the king that he would do everything for him except remain in power. His ministry, he said, had endeavored to deal with the situation arising from the deplorable crime, but Egypt would probably be exposed to dangers which could be avoided by the cabinet's resignation.

Zikar Pasha resorted to the action to preserve the utmost calm in these anxious times and to support the new government. Opposition speakers attacked Zikar Pasha, accusing him of weakness and failure to protect the country's dignity against Great Britain's onslaught.

EVERETT TRUE :: By CONDO

STRESSES UNITY OF CREEDS: OCCASION IS A BIG DINNER

(By Universal Service.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Otto H. Kahn was the principal speaker last night when scores of prominent figures in the world of art met at the Plaza ball at a gala occasion held under the auspices of the Catholic Writers' Guild.

Mr. Kahn's address, "Music Contribution to National Harmony," was appropriately selected inasmuch as the meeting, although held primarily to entertain the guests, was used as a occasion to stress the guild's object of disseminating healthy religious propaganda for the unity of all creeds and classes in their many common interests.

Among the unusual gathering of screen celebrities, prominent names from the army navy, municipality, stage and clergy were Melville E. Stone, M. Koenigsberg, Adolph S. Ochs and other leading newspaper men.

Father Francis F. Wuffy and General Traub, Bullard, Weigel and O'Ryan were speakers. Representing the navy was Admiral Plunkett.

TOBACCO SELLS FOR $90 PER HUNDRED

(By Universal Service.)

Two piles of tobacco brought $90 per hundred pounds yesterday at the Planters' warehouse. This is a new high record price for local tobacco, according to C. B. Davis, Jr., of the Planters. The previous peak price was 86 cents per hundred.

A high average was struck by C. F. Blanchard of Albemarle county yesterday when he sold 954 pounds at an average of $61.74 per hundred.

THE GUMPS

WHY SHOULD I TAKE THEM DOWN AND LET THE FLIES SNEAK INTO MY NICE WARM HOUSE TILL SPRING? I'M NOT RUNNING A WINTER RESORT FOR FLIES—LET 'EM STAY OUTSIDE AND FREEZE—

EVERYBODY TAKES DOWN THEIR WINDOW SCREENS FOR THE WINTER—

YES, AND EVERYBODY SPENDS THE SUMMER SWATTING FLIES—I'M NOT GOING TO LET A FLOCK OF BLOOD-THIRSTY FLIES USE MY HOUSE FOR A PARKING PLACE—I'LL LET THEM KNOW THEY ARE NOT WELCOME AROUND HERE AT ANY TIME—LET THEM SIT OUT ON A PILE OF SNOW—

THAT'S JUST A SILLY EXCUSE TO AVOID DOING A LITTLE WORK—

ALL RIGHT—ALL RIGHT—YOU WIN—I'LL SCATTER SUGAR AROUND THE HOUSE TO LET YOUR LITTLE FRIENDS KNOW THEY ARE WELCOME—BUT NEXT SPRING WHEN THEY'RE BITING THE HAND THAT FEEDS THEM DON'T COME CRYING TO ME FOR HELP—

FORTY-FOUR BIG COTTON BROKERS FACE ARREST

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 25.—Forty-four Atlanta, New Orleans and New York cotton brokers, including a high official of the New York cotton exchange, today were facing arrest under indictments returned here yesterday by the Fulton county grand jury resulting from an investigation of alleged illegal transactions on the part of the Atlanta commercial exchange and its members. The investigation was conducted by Solicitor General John A. Borkin following a raid several days ago on the local exchange. The specific charge in the indictments is that the brokers named were dealing in futures on margins which is a misdemeanor under the Georgia laws.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

(Thomson &amp; McKinnon)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Did you ever before see a big loan consummated with such ease? One hundred million seems to be just an ordinary transaction. The investment power of the nation is so great that a big enough deal has not yet been attempted to fully test the nation's buying power. Billions worth of stocks purchased in three weeks with an important change in brokers' loans. How is it being done and where is the money coming from? Professional investors probably have a minor interest in the market today. Many of them are probably short in anticipation of a break. It is an interesting situation, to say the least. I see great possibilities ahead on the left side of the market. The old and new element. Therefore, I would rather pursue the very safe course which is to take some profits on bulges, don't buy except on breaks.

MORNING GRAIN LETTER

(Thomson &amp; McKinnon)

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Primary receipts of wheat since July last have been sixty percent larger than a year ago, thus promising a correspondingly small movement of the balance of the crop year. At the same time, previously made expert sales will maintain a fairly steady movement. The net result being rapid disappearance of show window stocks. A rapid steady rise is not indicated, but general trend is upward.

MORNING SUGAR LETTER

(Thomson &amp; McKinnon)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—First notice day passed without a single tender on December contracts, while refiners paid as high as 1-4 cents for sugar in the market. The market is in a state of confusion. Labor troubles in Cuban grinding plants has further retarded progress on the new crop and the small carry-over will probably be exhausted for January requirements. Firmness in the near future will likely continue.

MORNING COTTON LETTER

(Thomson &amp; McKinnon)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The failure of December contracts to show weakness yesterday on first notice day gave the rest of the list strength and traders felt more confidence. I am inclined to think the market high enough. At any rate I would sell on hard spots for the time being.

BERLIN FIXES HOURS

OF LABOR FOR SUPPORTING STUDENTS

BERLIN.—Students earning their livelihood will not be allowed to work longer than four hours daily for their support, according to Dr. Reiche, the retiring president of Berlin University. Because of the belief that close connection with more or less radical workmen might "impregnate" the young students with socialist ideas, the problem of the poor student, forced to work his way through university, has worried the president.

SAYS DAY OF CLINGING

VINE GIRL IS OVER

(By Universal Service.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—If you had all the girls in the world to pick from, boys would you rather have "an experienced woman" or "a sweet and innocent clinging vine?"

"The days of the clinging vine type are over," said Miss Elinor Maxwell, St. Louis poet and short story writer, as she landed today on the White Star liner Homeric. "The only people who want them are the merry old men. The girl in demand among most men today is the woman of experience who isn't afraid of expressing herself. And she is a lot more attractive than the baby doll our fathers held up as an ideal."
